

Skagit River Resort at Bullerville presents a

House Concert

Zeke Hoskin & Flip Breskin

Zeke writes occasional straightforward things, but most of his songs are ironic and humorous. As he says, "I do it because many people don't like to listen to singers who take themselves too seriously. Since I, like everybody else, would like more people to think the way I do, I try to write songs that people with different opinions will listen to and enjoy, hopefully without noticing that I'm also trying to change their minds."

"I play the Celtic harp (actually, the Irish and the Scots seldom used nylon strings while there were Englishmen to disembowel) because I'm in love with the sounds it makes. It is not now traditional to sing rowdy songs with harp backup, but it used to be, and that's what I do."

Zeke also plays beautiful traditional Celtic music when he can be persuaded to refrain from singing. You may have seen Zeke in his sculling shell in the waters around Bellingham - he's the one with the white beard who is singing in time to his strokes!

These days Zeke is often accompanied on the acoustic guitar by Flip Breskin, who has mastered a very listenable fingering technique. Flip has spent the greater part of the past 25 years teaching others how to play and how to teach music. She publishes a collection of hot tips every month and she teaches guitar at music camps around the west, many of which she helped design.

If you appreciate folk music in the tradition of Woody Guthrie and Pete Seeger, mixed up with some old-world instrumentation and wry humor, you will not want to miss this performance which will surely bring smiles and generate some great memories.
