

Skagit River Resort at Bullerville presents a

House Concert

featuring

Charley Dyer & Bert Monroe

Charley and Bert led the Big Kitchen Blues Band in San Diego for over a decade, hosting many house concerts and jam sessions. Coming from different backgrounds, their tastes are eclectic, playing blues, jazz, country, pop, and folk. Charley studied with folk guitarist Vickie Cottle and with Wayne Riker, blues and jazz instructor for the National Guitar Workshop. Bert “cut my teeth on country,” as she grew up in a 24-hour barbecue restaurant with a juke box on old Highway 40 in Missouri. She likes to sing Pasty Cline and Billie Holiday, as well as Hank Williams, Bonnie Raitt, and John Prine. Charley’s large knowledge of rhythm patterns on both acoustic and archtop guitar provide the core foundation for the wide variety of their styles. Bert and Charley consider themselves performers of “living room” music, seeking group enjoyment with participatory music in intimate sessions. They encourage people to join in with a lot of their songs like “City of New Orleans” and “Jambalaya” and “Last Thing on My Mind”, among others. Like gathering around the campfire or in a cozy living room, let’s share some songs and sing.
